Inbound Links

"Inbound links" are links on other web pages that point to your web page. Many search engines take the wording and the exact address of the inbound links into account when determining the ranking of your web site.

General advice for your inbound links

Many search engines will think that your web page must be relevant for the search term "internet marketing solution" if other web pages link to your page with this expression in the link text. If many web pages link to your page with the link text "internet marketing solution", then it's more likely that your web page will obtain a good ranking for the search term "internet marketing solution".

Inbound link URLs

If the link URL to your web page contains "internet-marketing-solution", your web page might be considered more relevant by the search engine for this search term. For example,

Click here for information about `internet marketing solution`.

How to design inbound links

When you exchange links with other web sites, make sure that your important keywords are in the link texts. For example, if 20 other web sites link to your page with the following link

Click here for `internet marketing solution`

then it's much more likely that you'll obtain a good ranking for the search term "internet marketing solution" than if 100 web sites link to your page this way

`Click here` for further information.

Same Site Link URLs

Same site links are URLs in `<A HREF>` attributes that point to other web pages that reside on the same web site. For example, the HTML tag `Contact information` contains the same site link URL "contact.htm".

The top 10 ranked web pages use the following words in their same site link URLs:

General Advice

This chapter examines the search engine compatibility of your web page.

Search terms of the META Keywords tag appearing in the body text

Some search engines penalize web sites if the search terms of the META Keywords tag don't appear in the body text of the web page. The search term "start an internet business" of your META Keywords tag doesn't seem to be mentioned in the body text of your web page. You should either remove this search term from your META Keywords tag, or add the search term to the body text of your web page.

META Refresh tag

Your web page doesn't use the META Refresh tag so there won't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

META Robots tag

Your web page uses the META Robots tag to allow search engines to index your web page. Actually, you can remove this tag as search engines will also index your web page if this tag is missing.

META Title tag

Your web page doesn't use the META Title tag so there won't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

Dublin Core meta tags

Your web page doesn't use any Dublin Core Meta Tags so there won't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

Double meta tags

Your web page doesn't use any META tags twice so there won't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

Double <TITLE> tag

Your web page doesn't use the <TITLE> tag twice so there won't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

Capitalized letters

Some search engines and directories don't accept submissions with capitalized letters in the document title or in the meta tags. Your web page doesn't use all capitalized letters in those web page elements so there won't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

Scripts (e.g. JavaScript)

Your web page uses script code in an external file so you've already minimized the problems with scripts and the search engines.

Cascading Style Sheets (CSS)

Your web page doesn't seem to use style sheets at all so there won't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

Frames

Your web page doesn't use frames so there won't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

Tiny text

Some search engines consider tiny text (i.e. font size 1) as an attempt to fool the search engines. Some webmasters have abused tiny text in the past to hide dozens of keywords on a web page that human web surfers cannot see. Your web page doesn't seem to use tiny text so there shouldn't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

File type

Your web page URL "http://www.infinite-revenue.com/" doesn't indicate a dynamically served web page so there shouldn't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

Special characters in URL

Your web page URL "http://www.infinite-revenue.com/" doesn't contain any of the special characters "&", "$", "%", "?" or "=" in it so there shouldn't be any problems with the search engines in this aspect.

Free web space hosting

Some search engines and directories rank web sites lower that are hosted at free web space providers, or if web sites don't have their own domain name. Some search engines also limit the number of web pages they'll index from a single domain. Your web site doesn't seem to be hosted at a free web space provider. If it does, consider getting your own domain name.
